Principal's Corner

If you have a student in grades 5-8 I am sure you and your student have been talking about the new tardy policy. With the new bell system in place, we thought surely our students would never be late to class. After all, there are clocks everywhere! Well middle school students are social human beings and would much rather chat in the hallway by their lockers than get to class on time and prepared.

The good news is, our students have totally shown us they can be punctual, and prepared for class. Teachers are able to use their time efficiently and start teaching right away without wasted instructional minutes.

Students who arrive at 7:55 have an advantage over students who arrive at 8:10. This gives the student time to say hello to friends, unpack the backpack and get to class before the 8:10 bell rings. As parents, we want our students to have every advantage possible.

We understand that morning routines can be somewhat unpredictable. If you find yourself in a position where you know your middle school student is going to be late for their first period class, you can call the school, leave a message on the app or stop into the office to sign your child in. You can also communicate with me (Mrs. White) at the drop off loop that it was a crazy morning and please excuse your child.

Thank you for reminding your student of the importance of being on time, prepared and ready to learn.
